Today, we keep the Church's yearly feast of Corpus Christi, or the Feast of the Body and Blood of Christ (as it is often called today). The feast goes back to the 13th century, but it celebrates something far older: the institution of the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the Last Supper. While Holy Thursday is also a celebration of this mystery, the solemn nature of Holy Week, and the focus on Christ's Passion on Good Friday, overshadows that aspect of Holy Thursday.

On this feast the Church joyfully expresses her thankfulness to the Lord for the greatest gift she has been given and recognises, in faith, that Christ by His Real Presence in the Eucharist, fulfils His promise to be with us "always, until the end of the age." (Mt 28:20)

This afternoon, there will be a service of Solemn Vespers at 4 pm followed by a procession and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Congratulations to all our parishioners who were confirmed last Sunday. It was a lovely moving Mass and I have already received a letter of thanks and appreciation from Archbishop Stack. My own thanks to Chris Moore for co-coordinating the whole programme and to our other catechists Fran Smallwood and Eddie & Jan Wyman.

Belmont Annual Garden Fete

Four weeks only until the Fete!! Once again we are asking for your help in presenting a wonderful Garden Fete, even better than last year.

It would be great if all the gardeners out there would start growing some plants for the flower stall and if you need small pots for your seedlings - we have a lot of them to give away.

We are really in need of bric-a-brac and books, soft toys and children's toys, and of course any jewellery you no longer use so that we can again have a great success with these stalls.

If you are willing to help run a stall, or could help with the games please contact Kath Parry on 01981 250304.

We also need items for the Grand Tombola: unwanted presents etc. This is a popular stall and at the moment we have very little for it.

Thank you to those parishioners who have already given two bottles for the bottle stall, but we do need lots more!! We haven't yet hit the 400 bottles that the Bottle stall needs.

Please leave all items for the Fete in the Parish Porch not the Glass Porch. Closer to the date we will ask you for help with items for the Tea Tent.

Draw tickets are now on sale. Please take some to sell to friends and neighbours. Many thanks for your help!

The Angel

It is planned to trial a new format for The Angel to be published in early July. Articles of interest should be sent to the Parish office by 30th June to admin@belmontparish.org.uk please. Digital photos of events would also be welcome.

HOMILY

“Give them something to eat yourselves.”

Illustration

A series running in a newspaper supplement devoted to cooking asks famous chefs to imagine their last meal. A similar pattern runs through the descriptions they give. The setting is always important, usually idyllically in the countryside or by the sea, often recalling a memory from childhood or later family life. The people invited are mostly close family and friends. Sometimes a chef acquaintance is invited to bring his or her special dish to the feast. The dead are often there as well as the living. Music and the possibility of dance are often requested. The food and drink are not as extraordinary as you might expect. Often there are recipes remembered from childhood, dishes their mothers used to cook, dishes that evoke a particular occasion in their lives. The complicated sauces and recipes they have earned their Michelin stars with in their professional lives are conspicuous by their absence. There is a complete lack of formality. All enjoy themselves and get on well together. There are no arguments, no panic, no rush. The fact that this is the last meal to be shared together does not seem to evoke any great sadness or distress. Rather there is a sense of thanksgiving and delight, a great appreciation of what gifts creation has offered them and the people who have helped them in the practice of their gifts. And there is a sense of them already moving beyond the constraints of time.

Gospel Teaching

The miracles performed by Jesus are mostly either acts of healing or to do with the provision of food and drink. In today’s Gospel we are told that Jesus has made the crowds welcome before talking to them about the kingdom of God and curing those in need of healing. His disciples then want to send the people away to find lodging and food, but he challenges them to feed the crowds themselves. There is a pattern in the story that anticipates that of the Eucharist. First of all there is the important step of making people welcome. Then there is the reflection on the kingdom of God, usually through the scriptures. Acts of healing are perhaps nowadays less evident in all but Masses dedicated to that purpose, but running through each liturgy is prayer for those who are sick and in need. No one is left forgotten at the altar of God.

St Paul reminds us more directly of why we do what we do in the Eucharist. As we take the bread and wine and bless them we are doing what Jesus asked us to do. It is through this act that we make present the great act of salvation encompassed in Christ's death and resurrection. We thank God the Father for the gift of his Son through this simple act of eating and drinking, and we are not just eating and drinking bread and wine; we are eating and drinking Christ's body and blood, in this way bringing all the elements of our lives into the inspiration of Jesus himself.

Application

All meals carry with them the potential of nourishment and healing and more. Particularly important meals of celebration, shared with others, confirm our identity and allow us to celebrate our very existence and all our lives give to us. As in the story of the feeding of the five thousand, we need a warm welcome. We need the food and drink to sustain us, and we need to be thankful for what life provides for us not just in the meal but in the people with whom we share our lives.

All these elements are present when we celebrate the Eucharist together. They are the signs of how we are linked to Christ, who, through the gift of himself, transforms our humanity into his divinity. As we come together to remember what he did for us, as we share the message of God's kingdom, as we pray for healing, as we eat the bread and wine that have become the body and blood of Christ, we make present the mystery of the cross and resurrection. Touched by Christ's sacrificial act of salvation, our lives become themselves acts of thanksgiving for what he has done for us and also the means whereby he continues to make himself present in our world. We are truly Christ's body in and for our world. Christ's body is made incarnate again through our own humanity, offered to each other as food and drink to nourish and to heal.
